REVITALIZATION OF EDUCATIONAL POLICIES FOR THE SAFER WOMEN WORLD

Pallvi

"The best thermometer to the progress of nation in its treatment of its women" Swami Vivekananda.

ABSTRACT

Everyone believes that education for girls and women in the single most effective way to improve the lives of individual families by improving education opportunities which further helps women development skills that allows them to make decision and influence community change. Women is not only a home maker, rather she plays a significant role in the present modernized era. Education is a key player in the fight against gender-based-violence, because the inability to access education both generates and results in Gender Based Violence.

KEYWORDS :Educational Policies ,Safer Women World , modernized.

INTRODUCTION

In turn Education helps in uplifting economic, social and political status of women, the traditionally under privileged ones in the society. It requires the building up of a social wherein women can breathe without fear of oppression, exploitation, discrimination, biasness , partiality ,ignorance and resistance to education . There occurs a need to revitalize the education policies which will work towards women empowerment and create a safe women world. It will strengthen the women role in decision making, policy frame work, execution plan to improve standard of living, self-confidence and to enhance her social interaction.

EXISTING CURRICULUM

The existing educational policies are lagging behind in meeting the challenges of emerging trends and opportunities for women empowerment. There is much to be done in this context to minimum number of women in its domain for increasing her participation in almost all spheres of life. Hence educational structure needs to be revitalized in order to provide an occupation at the end, as there is no vocation without education.

APJ Abdul Kalam Azad writes in "Millennium vision 2010" Standing at the first decade of 21st century, India faces unprecedented challenges as a Developing Nation, Aspiring to transform it into a developed nation by the year 2020". In this context The Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) clears its verdict. In India, considerable progress has been made in the field of women education, gender equality in education and global economic growth.

REALIZATION FOR REVITALIZATION OF EDUCATION

To perceive the result of Dream seen by our former President Sh. Abdul Kalam Azad, there is need to revitalize the educational practices. Therefore it is foremost duty of nation to remove the obstacles occurring in path of provision of higher education, sustain with dignity, great participation and in building cordial social relationships. In other countries like China, America etc. the participation of women towards their nation building is quite higher in comparison to India. This happens because still India has not come out of the vicious trap of old and backward system of education. India can become a developed nation only with increasing women's participation in nation building. Realizing the importance of above mentioned content HRD Minister Smt. Smriti Irani has expressed her views on creation of safe world for women. She emphasized on self motivational approaches towards building a strong character society and not merely policy driven approach. Hence education needs renewal of old educational policy and every policy should be made after a national-level discussion with equal participation of all the stakeholders.

REVITALIZATION OF EDUCATION BY MICRO FINANCE

No power comes without power of finance and in-turn education. Women and girls in the developing world are often denied opportunities for education. Lack of education limits prospects, decreases family income, reduces health, puts women and girls at risk of trafficking and exploitation, and limits the economic advancement of entire countries.

In realizing aims of education, a nation requires financial assistance and harmonious interaction between centre and state government. Therefore in order to revitalize and strengthen the education we require micro-finance which will ultimately pave a way towards solving problems occurring in the journey of achieving goals of higher education.

It has become widely accepted notion that women have an increasingly important role to play in social and economic development. Therefore paucity of required resources, finance, technology, skills, competence can only be removed by delivering ample resources at women disposal. It requires equal capabilities such as education and health opportunities to meet the global challenges influencing Indian economy.

Following Points clearly depicts need for finance to achieve objectives of topic under the study.

1. Providing business training.
2. Investing in women's general education and literacy.
3. Providing guidance in balancing family and work responsibilities.

4. Providing a forum for dialogue on social and political issues such as women's rights and community problems.
5. Giving women experience in decision-making promoting women's ownership, control and participatory governance in their micro finance programmes.
6. Giving power to women in making strategic choices.

IMPACT OF EDUCATION ON ECONOMIC CONDITION OF WOMEN

To increase their economic opportunities, women need access to more and better jobs, a business climate that supports them in starting and doing business, a financial sector that gives them access to financial services tailored to their needs, and greater livelihood security in times of food and fuel crises. This is especially true for women living in rural areas and vulnerable environments. Women has the potential to change their own economic status, as well as of whole nation. But unfortunately women's economic contributions go unrecognized, their work undervalued. The relationship between educational system and economic position is very strong because cultural qualities obtained by education will transform economic condition of women. It brings prosperity and makes difference in her lives through maintaining an appropriate existence in society. When women earn an income, they are more likely than men to spend it on food, education and health care for their children and families. And research shows that women's access to employment can be empowering: it boosts women's self-esteem and bargaining power within the household, gives them more mobility and exposes them to new ideas and knowledge.

Following are some of the positive outcomes of women's economic empowerment:

- Where women's participation in the labor force increases, the economy experienced the largest reduction in poverty rates.
- With access to the resources women need, their utility increases, making it less likely that their families are hungry and unprivileged.
- When women indulge in vocation and earn money, they may have more bargaining power at home. This in turn can help reduce their vulnerability to domestic violence.

Many researches has found that technology helps women increase their productivity as well as launch income-generating pursuits and entrepreneurial ventures. These kinds of outcomes empower women to become stronger leaders and to more effectively contribute financially to their families, communities and countries.

CONCLUSION:

The main stress should be on equal work and elimination of discrimination in employment. One of the basic objectives should be universal education of woman, the lack of which tends to increase inequality and other grave problems. The popular UNESCO slogan is "educate a man and you educate an individual; educate a woman and you educate a family". Women's education is both about women's position in society and about the role of entrepreneurship. Women are facing many obstacles that have to be overcome in order to give her access to the same opportunities as men. Women can do wonders by their effectual and competent involvement in economic activities. The women are having basic indigenous knowledge, skill, potential and resources to establish and manage enterprise. Now, what is the need is to revitalize the educational policies favoring women and letting them to survive in more safer world. More over Formation of modernized and able educational policies will improve Women role towards exploring newer concepts, ideas and skills. This will further motivate the other women also to engage in improving their qualification and they can strengthen their capacities besides adding to the family income and national productivity.
