ABSTRACT

Young people are an integral part of society, a major resource and a key agent for social change, economic development and technological innovation. Their imagination, ideals, energies and vision are essential for the continuing development of the societies of which they are members. Youth workers, social scientists, educators, policy makers and NGOs in face the same problems and challenges in enabling young people and creating an environment for active participation.

Introduction

The young people of today are growing up in a micro-chip age characterized by economic uncertainty, steeply rising unemployment and major technological change arising from widespread application of computers. This rapid change and the attending attitudes of society affect the personal and social development of young people.

A Good Introduction :-

Give a method of reasoning. State your particular hypothesis(es) or objective(s), and depict the thinking that drove you to choose them. Extremely briefly depict the exploratory configuration and how it achieved the expressed destinations.

A Good Materials :-

Methods & Materials used to per research topic.

Result

Must add result in your article.

A Good Result :-

Results are as per aims and objective and useful to further research .

Conclusion

Young people are the future of the country and they have the power to create significant impact not only as they grow older, but also right now. So how do we motivate and organize young people to help in this important work? How do we access this spirited resource in an effort to create healthier youth?

A Good Conclusion :-

Clarify the majority of your perceptions however much as could be expected, concentrating on systems. Choose if the trial outline satisfactorily tended to the speculation, and whether it was legitimately controlled.

REVIEWER COMMENTS

- Thought of these focuses will, I accept, lead to an enhanced report that better shows the key ideas and conclusions.
- Generally, this is a reasonable, brief, and elegantly composed original copy.
- The presentation is pertinent and hypothesis based.
- Sufficient data about the past study discoveries is displayed for perusers to take after the present study method of reasoning and strategies.
