ABSTRACT

Sanitation is vital for human health and it is one of the important indicators that reflect the quality of life of the people. Despite its immense importance in human lives, this issue remained neglected for years in developing countries including India. India stands second amongst the worst places in the world for sanitation where hardly 33 percent of rural population has access to basic sanitation. Upto the decade of 1980 ('World Water Decade'), rural sanitation didn't receive proper attention of the government in India

Introduction

Sanitation is vital for human health and it is one of the important indicators that reflect the quality of life of the people. It may be conceived as yardstick of socio-economic development of a nation. Individual health and hygiene is, by all means .

A Good Introduction :-

Depict the significance (importance) of the study - why was this value doing in any case? Give a wide connection. Extremely briefly depict the exploratory configuration and how it achieved the expressed destinations.

Materials

The main technique of analysis in this paper is tabular and graphical representation. This paper is composed with secondary data collected from various literatures published in different journals, reports of department of drinking water supply, government of India.

A Good Materials :-

Materials may be accounted for in a different passage or else they may be distinguished alongside your systems. In biosciences we habitually work with arrangements - allude to them by name and portray totally, including convergences of all reagents, and pH of watery arrangements, dissolvable if non-fluid.

Result

Must add result in your article.

A Good Result :-

Results are as per aims and objective and useful to further research .

Conclusion

There are various constraints that impede the effective implementation of sanitation campaign in India. Lenton et. al. (2005) argued that the ever changing political scenario makes it difficult to ensure a lasting programme as investment may not yield results during one term-period.

A Good Conclusion :-

You may propose future headings, for example, how the analysis may be adjusted to achieve an alternate target. Clarify the majority of your perceptions however much as could be expected, concentrating on systems.

REVIEWER COMMENTS

- The writing audit was careful, the approach was carefully exhaustive and fused the utilization of sufficient quantities of tests in dust size examination and blast tests.
- I discover no shortcoming at all with the routines, information examination, or conclusions.
- The work, as with all work advancing from this specific gathering, is generally sound.
