ABSTRACT

Social exclusion happens when someone is left out of mainstream society, deprived of opportunities for the participation in economic, social and civic processes. It is a process by which certain groups are systematically put into disadvantageous position and are discriminated against on the basis of their ethnicity, race, religion, sexual orientation, caste, gender, age, disability, migrant status or place of domicile. In a country like India which is highly caste based and where all kinds of differentiation is cropped with the birth of an individual into certain caste
