REVIEW OF THE ARTICLE

Ethical Hedonism (Indian and Western)

Dr. B. H. Gujarlar

ABSTRACT:

The problem statement was clear and well articulated Ethical hedonism holds that pleasantness is the only quality because of which an experience is good or valuable. A good action is an action which leads to a pleasant experience as its consequence, and the right action at any moment is the one which will lead to more pleasant experiences or, as we commonly say, to greater pleasure than any other action which is possible for the agent at that particular moment. Ethical hedonism does not merely say that one of the factors which makes an action good is the pleasantness of the experiences which it brings about

INTRODUCTION:

The introduction provides a good, generalized background of the topic that quickly gives the reader an appreciation Ethical hedonism is a theory of ethics telling how men ought to act and what men ought to desire. In this way it differs from psychological hedonism, which is a theory of psychology holding that men always do those actions which have pleasant consequences and do have such natures that they can desire nothing but pleasantness. If a psychological hedonist were to go a step further than psychological hedonists usually do, and maintain that men always do those actions which bring the greatest possible amount of pleasantness to themselves, there could be no theory of ethics at all for men would always act in a certain way and would be unable to act in any other.

METHODOLOGY:

Author has not mentioned any specific methodology. This study was descriptive in nature. Must add methodology in your article. Methodology used to per research topic.

PRESENTATION OF RESULTS:

Must add result in your article.

A Good Result: -

Results are as per aims and objective and useful to further research.

REFERENCES:

Prior publication by the author(s) of substantial portions of the data or study was appropriately acknowledged.

RELEVANCE:

The paper is properly organized and demands appreciation. I think the paper will satisfy the interest of the readers.
