A Study On Role Of Micro Finance In Rural Women Development In Tamilnadu

Dr. P. Anbuoli

ABSTRACT:

The problem statement was clear and well articulated Micro finance sector has passed through long passage from micro savings and micro credit to micro insurance and micro money transfer. This continuing and evolutionary growth process has known an immense opportunity to the rural women in India to reach rational economic, social and cultural empowerment leading to better living standard and quality of life for participating households.

INTRODUCTION:

The introduction provides a good, generalized background of the topic that quickly gives the reader an appreciation Micro Finance schemes offer small loans to poor and rural people especially women for their diverse requirements such as consumption, shelter, revenue generation and self-employment for their better livelihood. In several situations, micro finance schemes propose a mixture of numerous services to their customers along with credit. These comprise connection with micro savings outlet and insurance policies, skill development training and developing marketing arrangement.

METHODOLOGY:

The present study was exclusively realized on secondary data sources. It was purely descriptive type of research since it describes the facts relating to the problem. This study is based on the sample of 100 rural women and the survey is conducted in various parts of Tamilnadu during January – February 2012. The sample is collected from the infinite population of rural women, sampling unit and source list are the rural women availing micro finance services and identified in micro finance institutions, self-help groups and so on.

PRESENTATION OF RESULTS:

The amount of data presented was sufficient and appropriate. Tables, graphs, or figures were used judiciously and agree with the text The revolution from the micro finance towards strengthening the rural poor in India have provided considerable flows of credit, frequently to very low income groups or households, who would generally be excluded by conservative financial institutions.
